ENGLISH MERCHANTS PROTEST OCCUPATION

MURDER CASE NEARING JURY IN COURT HERE

Kasimir Schneider's Fate Will Rest with Jury Before
Day Is Finished

ATTORNEYS ARGUE

Defendant on Stand for Cross-
Examination Four Hours
Before State Rests

Argument in the case was still
in progress at 4 o'clock this afternoon but it was expected
the case would reach the jury
before 5 o'clock.

Kasimir Schneider's fate will
rest with a jury in district court
this afternoon.

Final arguments before the jury
and instructions of Judge Jansons
were expected to be complete
during the afternoon, and the jury
given the case.

With the testimony completed
yesterday afternoon in the case in which Schneider is charged with
first degree murder by poisoning
his wife, Amelia, who died here
last June 16, States Attorney Allen for the prosecution and C. P.
Kelsch of Mandan for the defense
laid their case before the jury.

P. D. Norton, for the defense,
opened today's argument to the jury, with John F. Sullivan, special prosecutor, to close the state's
plea for the maximum punishment
under the law, which is life imprisonment.

At the conclusion of Schneider's
cross-examination, which lasted
for more than four hours, the defense rested and the state concluded its testimony with rebuttal
witnesses.

States Attorney Allen, opening
the argument, declared the elimination of all theories in the case of Mrs. Schneider, who died in her
of guilt on the defendant without doubt. He said that she died of arsenic poisoning, either by suicide or by Schneider's administration. There
was no evidence of suicide, he
said, every bit of evidence being
against this theory. Experts testified, he said, that the lesions
found on the walls of the stomach
were such as to show that the poison was administered over a period of at least two or three months.
The only deduction, was that Schneider poisoned her, and the testimony of many witnesses supported the theory sufficient to convince
a juror beyond a reasonable doubt,
he asserted.

Discussing Circumstantial Evidence
C. P. Kelsch inveighed against circumstantial evidence in circumstantial evidence, relating to the jury
the story of a man whom he said
was hearing the gallows from stronger circumstantial evidence
than had been produced in this
case, when it was discovered he
was innocent. Every action of Schneider, he asserted, had been
that of an innocent man, and an eight-hour third degree by authorities shortly after the woman
died, failed to shake him.

The States Attorney in his argument, which occupied an hour,
declared that it was impossible
that Mr. Schneider had committed suicide, because it was shown she
was happy and because it was unthinkable that she would have introduced poison into her body
over a period of two or three months, in an effort to take her
own life by degrees.

He dwelt upon the testimony of
Joseph Schwan and other witnesses, declaring that Schneider's
explanations in many particulars
were contradictory to 15 witnesses.
Mr. Kelsch, speaking for an hour and a half, declared that Schneider's admissions throughout
were consistent with a state of innocence. The coroner, he said,
was not suspicious at the time
of Mrs. Schneider's death. Later
he talked to Joe Schwan and then changed his mind, the attorney for the defense argued, asserting that Joe Schwan wanted to put a guilty conscience on Schneider.

He declared "that's why the medicine cabinet of Joe Schwan was
not produced."

Given Third Degree, he Says
Schneider, he asserted, was questioned in the office of former States Attorney McCarty on June 25, 10 days after the woman's
death, from 11:30 a. m. to 7 p. m.
The justice of the peace called in
a reporter to take down all testimony, he said.

"They haven't shown that that man they kept their for hours
without anything to eat or drink
made one guilty statement—they haven't shown one time he lied,"
Mr. Kelsch declared.

"There was Chief Martinson
who caught the slayer of the Wolf
family; there was the shrewd justice of the peace."

"Where is the guilty man who
could defy a third degree like that
and then come out without making
a single false statement?" he asked.
"A man's conscience must be
clear to stand against a thing like this."

He declared that while the
weeping mother of the dead woman was in the court, the testimony showed that Kasimir Sch-

ELIZABETH LAVELLE IN THE PINCHOT "SCHOOL OF DEMOCRA-

Harrisburg, Pa., March 9. Two schools of democracy exist here.

One is in the capitol, where Gifford Pinchot, Pennsylvania's new
governor, works at a desk in an un-
guarded reception room with this
sign beside the open door: "Governor's office. Walk in. Hours, 10
to 12 daily."

"The other is a real school, where
seven-year-old Gifford Pinchot, Jr.,
and young Steve Stahlnecker, son
of the governor's secretary, are being educated in democracy and other subjects along with children selected
from all walks of life in Harrisburg.
The school was Mrs. Pinchot's
idea. She leased a 12-room house
and turned it into a private school.
There is no tuition; she pays all the

expenses, including salaries of Miss Elizabeth Lavelle, Giffy's governess,
who runs the school, and Harrison
Trowbridge, Columbia graduate, who joined the Pinchot entourage last summer as a tutor.

Ten children were selected as schoolmates of Giffy's from a list of 37 picked from public school lists.
All are between the ages of six and nine; these are five boys and five girls, including children of two mar-chants, a lawyer, a detective, a plumber, a grocer, a shoemaker, a merchant, a druggist, and a state
employee.

"Children were selected by mental
and other tests," said Miss Lavelle,
"and on consideration of each child's individual characteristics and energy."

Alvin Owsley Urged to Speak
at Teachers' Conventions

Alvin Owsley, national commander
of the American Legion, has been invited to speak on "American Ideals"
at the convention of the southeastern
district of the State Educational association, to be held at Jamestown,
April 12 and 13, it was announced today by Miss Minnie Nielson, state superintendent. Effort also would be made to have Mr. Owsley speak at Minot on the northwestern district
teachers' convention, which meets
April 13 and 14.

Among the educators already selected for programs of the conventions are Dr. M. V. O'Shea of the

Bridgeman Heads Dairy Association

Fargo, Mar. 9.—Officers elected at the closing session of the annual meeting of the North Dakota Dairy-
men's Association yesterday are:
R. F. Bridgeman, Grand Forks,
President.
Franklin Page, Hamilton, Vice-President.

retary.

E. S. Person, Minot, Treasurer.
Professor J. R. Dice, S. C. Crabbe,
Fargo, and W. F. Noonan, Oakes,
were chosen members of the board
of directors.

Among a large number of resolutions passed by the convention one
condemned the action of the state
house of representatives in the recent legislative session for eliminating the appropriation of $10,000
for a dairy building addition at the action of the house, was characterized as "false economy" and a direct setback to the promotion of the dairy industry in the state.

TO BUILD LARGER SCHOOL

Linton, N. D., March 9.—The local school board is sounding out opinion this week for or against the proposition of adding two more stories to the new school house. It seems the recent legislature fixed
things so that the district can't lay enough new to build the entire building. When the project was begun, only about $25,000 could be raised. Hence, one story of a larger proposed building was undertaken. It is probable that this summer will see the rest of the project undertaken.

WAR UPON VICE ATTACK PROCEDURE

Chicago Police Continue to Watch All Places Under Suspicion

Chicago, Mar. 9.—The campaign against commercialized vice, ordered by Chief of Police Fitzmorris
that placed uniformed policemen at
the front and rear of all known disorderly houses today bid fair to have
a sequence in the courts, some proprietors of alleged disorderly houses
already having sought injunctions
to prevent police from guarding
their property.

Anticipating a general demand for
injunctions the city legal department was preparing to draft answers
to all petitions for injunctions as soon as the bills are filed.

While the number of places under
watch had gradually increased today to a total of 113, including three downtown hotels and many in the
outlying districts a general exodus
from disorderly houses was noticed
in some parts of the city. Police were withdrawn as soon as the inhabitants moved out.

TURKEY HENS SURVIVE 18-DAY BURIAL IN SNOW

February 13—Moore's son and a
neighbor boy playing in a snow bank
near the Moore home uncovered a turkey hen that had been frozen in the snow. Released from the crusted snow she

Fargo, Mar. 9.—Final arguments were being made late today in Cass county district court before Judge McKenna of Napoleon on a motion to quash an indictment containing 33 counts against H. J. (Hagen of Seattle, one of a number of defendants alleged to be involved in the failure of the Scandinavian American bank here.

Arguments for the defense were presented by Judge W. S. Lauder
and Charles Wolfe of Wahpeton,
and former Governor John Burke.
Attorney-General George Shafer
of Bismarck and William C. Green
of Fargo appeared as attorneys for the state.

to the arguments of defense it
was claimed that the statute gives
the Attorney-General no right to go before grand juries in any investigation except that arising
from prohibition cases. It was sought by testimony to show that
a former Attorney-General and
several of his assistants had appeared before the grand jury in the present case with testimony.

Other contentions were that the
manner of obtaining the indictments were improper and that the appearance of witnesses, Arthur
Le Saucur was likewise improper.
It is likely that Judge McKenna
will take the matter under advisement for several days.

RELATIONS STRAINED

Great Britain May Be Forced
to Withdraw Her Troops
From Zone

London, Mar. 9.—The outcry of British merchants in Cologne against
the Franco-Belgian customs barrier
around that area gathers strength
daily. The chief complaint is that British trade with Germany is being strangled and is almost at a standstill.

The British Chamber of Commerce in Cologne has received its
protest to the London government
against what it regards as an attempt to blockade the zone. It seems that there also is some resentment
over the action of the French and Belgian troops in completely surrounding the British-occupied zone, which has made it impossible for the English to move goods without obtaining permission of the military
post.

There are reports that relations
between those posts and the British
are none too friendly.

Some of the newspapers have feicived discussion of the possible
withdrawal of General Goldroy's troops. It is said that the German
population in the Cologne district
believes this step to be imminent.

On the other hand the Cologne
correspondent of the Daily Mail
which is practically the only London newspaper supporting the French
says the German propagandists are attempting to create dissension between the British and Ruhr alie-
s. He insists the British traders
are overdoing their complaints.

ROUND UP DISTURBERS

Essen, Mar. 9.—French troops have
again been withdrawn from Dort-
mund which was occupied yesterday
for the purpose of rounding up all
members of the disbanded security
police still at large. Twenty members of the security force were arrested and expelled with a warning
not to return to the district.

This move was part of the Franco-Belgian program to ride the Ruhr of some 10,000 security police who have
been a constant source of annoyance
to the French forces, doing espionage
work and spreading propaganda
and otherwise interfering the French
and Belgian military forces.

This total, he said, included 34-

RANCHER IS HELD LIABLE

Federal Court Verdict Directed for Bank

The Dakota Trust and Savings
Bank of Sioux Falls, S. D. today
was awarded judgment for $43,115.50
against Carl Sievert, Dunn County
rancher, in the federal court, verdict being directed after most of
yesterday and this morning was summarily in evidence and in argument on the law.

The defense claimed that the notes purporting to have been issued originally to a South Dakota
bank were not valid obligations, the plaintiff claiming that the Sioux Falls trust company was an innocent holder of negotiable notes.
Judge Miller directed a verdict,
holding that the weight of authority and evidence was with the plaintiff. The case, he said, was brought under a North Dakota statute and
the rule of the North Dakota supreme court in a similar case was held by him to be the proper rule
in the case before him.

MURDER CASE
NEARING JURY
IN COURT HERE

Rest with Jury Before

Defendant on Stand for Cross-
Before State Rests

Argument in the case was still
in progress at 4 o'clock this
afternoon, but it was expected
the case would reach the jury
before 5 o'clock.

Kasimir Schneider's fate will
rest with a jury in district court
this afternoon.

Final arguments before the jury
and instructions of Judge Jansons
were expected to be complete
during the afternoon, and the jury
given the case.

With the testimony completed
yesterday afternoon in the case in which Schneider is charged with
first degree murder by poisoning
last June 15, States Attorney Allen
for the prosecution and C. F.
Kelsch for the defense laid their case before the jury.

P. B. Norton, for the defense,
opened today's argument to the
jury, with John F. Sullivan, special
prosecutor, to close the state's
plea for the maximum punishment
under the law, which is life imprisonment.

At the conclusion of Schneider's
cross-examination, which lasted
for more than four hours, the defense rested and the state concluded its testimony with rebuttal
witnesses.

the argument, declared the elimination of all theories in the case of Mrs. Schneider, who died in her
of guilt on Schneider's shoulders.

It was established without doubt,
he said, that she died of arsenic
was no evidence of suicide, he
against this theory. Experts testified, he said, that the lesions
found on the walls of the stomach
were such as to show that the poison was administered over a period of at least two or three months.
The only deduction was that Sch-
neider poisoned her, and the testimony of many witnesses supported the theory sufficient to convince
a juror beyond a reasonable doubt,

Discusses Circumstantial Evidence
C. F. Kelsch inveighed against too much credence in circumstan-
tial evidence, relating to the jury
was nearing the gallows from
stronger circumstantial evidence
was innocent. Every action of Schneider, he asserted, had been
that of an innocent man, and an eight-hour third degree by authorities shortly after the woman
died, failed to shake him.

The States Attorney in his argument, which occupied an hour,
declared that it was impossible
suicide, because it was shown she
was happy and because it was un-
thinkable that she would have in-
months in an effort to take her
own life by degrees.

He dwelt upon the testimony of
Joseph Schwan and other witnesses, declaring that Schneider's
explanations in many particulars
were contradicted by 15 witnesses.
Mr. Kelsch, speaking for an hour and a half, asserted that Schneider's admissions throughout
were consistent with a state of innocence. The coroner, he said,
of Mrs. Schneider's death. Later
he talked to Joe Schwan and then changed his mind, and then asserted for the defense that Schneider was innocent, and that
"Joe Schwan wanted to put a guilty conscience on Schneider.
He declared that's why the medicine cabinet of Joe Schwan was
not produced."

Given Third Degree, he Says
Schneider, he asserted, was
States Attorney McCurdy on June 25, 10 days after the woman's
death, from 11:30 a. m. to 7 p. m.
The justice of the peace called in
a reporter to take down all testimony, he said.

"They haven't shown that that
man kept their for hours
without anything to eat or drink
made one guilty statement—
they haven't shown one time he lied,"
Mr. Kelsch declared.

There was Chief Martinson
who caught the slayer of the Wolf
family; there was the shrewd justice of the peace.

"Where is the guilty man who
and then come out without making
a single false statement?" he asked.
clear to stand against a thing like
that."

He declared that while the
weeping mother of the dead woman was in the court, the testimony showed that Kasimir Sch-

Harrisburg, Pa., March 9.—Two
schools of democracy exist here.
One is in the capitol, where Gif-
ford Pinchot, Pennsylvania's new
guarded reception room with this
sign beside the open door: "Governor's office. Walk in. Hours, 10
to 12 Daily."
The other is a real school, where
seven-year-old Gifford Pinchot, Jr.,
and young Steve Stahlnecker, son
of the governor's secretary, are be-
subjects along with children selected
The school was Mrs. Pinchot's
idea. She leased a 12-room house
and turned it into a private school.
There is no tuition; she pays all the

Elizabeth Lavelle, Giffy's governess,
who runs the school, and Harrison
directs the Pinchot entourage last summer as a tutor.
Ten children were selected as
schoolmates of Giffy's from a list of
All are between the ages of six and nine; there are five boys and five girls, including children of two machinery, a lawyer, a detective, a
plumber, a grocer, a shoemaker, a
merchant, a druggist, and a state
employee.
"Children were selected by mental
"and on consideration of each child's
individual characteristics and energy."

at Teachers' Conventions

Alvin Owsley, national commander
of the American Legion, has been invited to speak on "American Ideals"
at the convention of the Southeastern
District of the State Educational association, to be held at Jamestown
April 12 and 13, it was announced today by Miss Minnie Nielson, state
superintendent. Effort also would be made to have Mr. Owsley speak at
teachers' convention, which meets
April 13 and 14.

Among the educators already selected for programs of the conventions are Dr. M. V. O'Shea of the University of Wisconsin, who will appear at the Jamestown convention, and Dr. May Campbell, of the Teachers, College, Cedar Falls, Ia., who will speak at the Minot convention.

Bridgeman Heads
Dairy Association

Fargo, Mar. 9.—Officers elected at the closing program of the annual meeting of the North Dakota Dairy-
men's Association yesterday are:
R. F. Bridgeman, Grand Forks,
President.
Franklin Page, Hamilton, Vice-
President.
W. F. Reynolds, Bismarck, Secretary.
E. S. Person, Minot, Treasurer.

Professor J. R. Dice, S. C. Crabbe,
Fargo, and W. F. Noonan, Oakes,
were chosen members of the board
of directors.
Among a large number of resolutions passed by the convention one
condemned the action of the state
house of representatives in the re-
cent legislative session for eliminating the appropriation of $10,000
for a dairy building addition at the state fair grounds, which was characterized as "false economy" and a direct setback to the promotion of the

Linton, N. D., March 9.—The local school board is sounding out sentiment this week for or against the
proposition of adding two more sto-
seems the recent legislature fixed
things so that the district can levy enough now to build the entire building. When the project was began, only about $25,000 could be raised. Hence, one story of a larger proposed building was undertaken.
It is probable that this summer
will see the rest of the project undertaken.

YOUTH FACES GALLOWS WITH FIRM COMPROMISE

Fort Madison, Ia., Mar. 9.—Calm and composed to the last and without a word of regret on his lips for the crime he had committed, Earl Throst, young Allamakee county farmer, mounted the gallows in the prison yard here this morning with a steady stride and was hanged for the murder of Inga Magnusson, the county school teacher, who "turned him down."

Sheriff Ben A. Davis of Allamakee county pulled the lever at exactly 7:30 a. m.

TWO YOUTHS
ARE FLOGGED

Tulsa, Okla., Mar. 9.—The floggers
of two 17-year-old youths, who were seized last night and taken to a grove outside the city, where the lash was applied to their backs were being sought by officers today. The victims of the floggers were George Price and Fred Sanders.

MANY INQUIRE

Many inquiries are being received concerning North Dakota clay. Dr.
J. H. Worst, state immigration director, said today. A booklet now in course of preparation by the department, will include salient facts concerning the development in the brick and tile industry in the state, and the opportunities offered in that line,
Dr. Worst said.

Seeping Water

Chicago, Mar. 9.—The campaign

dered by Chief of Police Fitzmorris
that placed uniformed policemen at
a sequence in the courts, some pro-
prietors of alleged disorderly houses
already having sought injunctions
to prevent police from guarding
their property.

Anticipating a general demand for
injunctions the city legal department was preparing to draft answers
soon as the bills are filed.

watch had gradually increased to-
down town hotels and many in the
outlying districts a general exodus
in some parts of the city. Police
were withdrawn as soon as the inhabitants moved out.

points relating to reduction of taxes
within the county will also be discussed.

TURKEY HENS SURVIVE
18-DAY BURIAL IN SNOW

Shields, N. D., March 9.—Turkeys raised by Wm. M. Moore, farmer near here—mammoth bronze variety
—are tough birds. Sunday, eighteen days after the terrific blizzard of February 13, Moore's son and a
neighbor boy playing in a snow bank
near the Moore home uncovered a
turkey hen that had been frozen in
the snow. Released from the crusty snow she hurried to the barnyard and food.
Later another turkey hen, also missing since the blizzard, was dug out of the same snow bank, very much alive and very hungry.

the front and rear of all known dis-

down town hotels and many in the
in some parts of the city. Police
were withdrawn as soon as the inhabitants moved out.

Arguments for the defense were presented by Judge W. S. Lander
and Charles Wolfe of Wahpeton,
and former Governor John Burke.
Attorney-General George Shaler
of Bismarck and William C. Green
of Fargo appeared as attorneys for
the state.

In the arguments of defense it
was claimed that the statute gives
the Attorney-General no right to
go before grand juries in any in-
sought by testimony to show that
a former Attorney-General and
several of his assistants had appeared before the grand jury in the
present case with testimony.

Other contentions were that the
manner of obtaining the indict-
ments were improper and that the
appearance of a witness, Arthur Le Secur was likewise improper.
It is likely that Judge McKenna
will take the matter under advisement
for several days.

The returns include practically all
the class one carriers, this group including the corporations which own ninety per cent of all the country's rail mileage. The earnings resulted from a record breaking increase of business given the railroads during the month.

GIVES COMPANY JUDGMENT

Fargo, N. D., March 9.—Judge A.
T. Cole recently filed a judgment of $14,421.32 against the Equity Cooperative Packing company of Fargo, in favor of the Northwest Audit company of this city.
The audit company sued for $15-000, the amount of notes given by the company for an audit of its books, and secured by a mortgage on the plant and interest. The court gave the packing company a total allowance of $2,500, making the audit company's judgment $12,500 with interest, totaling $14,421.32.
The case was tried before Judge Cole last fall, but the filing of judgment was delayed pending the outcome of plans to liquidate the packing company's obligations.

FRENCH COUP

RELATIONS STRAINED

From Zone

London, Mar. 9.—The outcry of British merchants in Cologne against
the Franco-Belgian customs barrier
around that area gathers strength
British trade with Germany is being strangled and is almost at a standstill.

The British Chamber of Commerce in Cologne has received its
against what it regards as an attempt to blockade the zone. It seems
that there also is some resentment
over the action of the French and Belgian troops in completely surrounding the British bridgedhead which has made it impossible for the English to move eastward without
post.

There are reports that relations
between those posts and the British
are none too friendly.

Some of the newspapers have received discussion of the possible withdrawal of General Goldley's
troops. It is said that the German
population in the Cologne district
believes this step to be imminent.

On the other hand the Cologne
correspondent of the Daily Mail
says the German propagandists are
attempting to create dissension between the British and the Ruhr allies. He insists the British traders
are overdoing their complaints.

Essen, Mar. 9.—French troops have
again been withdrawn from Dort-
mund which was occupied yesterday
for the purpose of rounding up all
members of the disbanded security
police still at large. Twenty members of the security force were arrested and expelled with a warning
not to return to the district.

This move was part of the Franco-Belgian program to rid the Ruhr of
some 10,000 security police who have
been a constant source of annoyance
to the French forces, doing espionage
work and spreading propaganda
and otherwise hindering the French
and Belgian military forces.

SEIZE FORESTS

Berlin, March 9.—State-owned forests extending over 86,485
acres have been seized in the occupation zone of the Rhineland

ment before the budget committee of the Prussian diet by the socialist deputy Peter Koch.

This total, he said, included 34-
944 acres of Prussian forests.

RANCHER IS HELD LIABLE

Federal Court Verdict Di-

Bank of Sioux Falls, S. D. today
against Carl Stevens Dunn, county
rancher, in the federal court, ver-
yesterday and this morning was consumed in evidence and in argument on the law.

The defense claimed that the
notes purporting to have been in-sued originally to a South Dakota
bank were not valid obligations, the
plaintiff claiming that the Sioux Falls trust company was an innocent holder of the negotiable notes.
Judge Miller directed a verdict,
holding that the weight of authority and evidence was with the plaintiff. The case, he said, was brought
under a North Dakota statute and
the rule of the North Dakota supreme court in a similar case was held by him to be the proper rule in the case before him.

MANY McLEAN PIONEERS AT DOUBLE RITES

Garrison, N. D., Mar. 9.—Many pioneers of this section joined in paying tribute to the memory of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Robinson of Garrison, who died within a period of twenty-four hours, at the last rites held Wednesday at the Congregational church. Services were conducted by Rev. L. R. Burman, pastor of the M. E. church at Washburn. The pallbearers, all pioneers of the early eighties, were as follows: Chas. Staley, Alfred Staley, J. P. Peterson, Joseph Mann, Lukes Eskes, Dr. P. R. Smyth, Wm. Lindell, H. C. Nygaard, John Reuter, Aug. H. Wahl, Jos. H. Olsen and O. F. McGraw. Interment was made in the Garrison cemetery.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Robinson had been the pioneer days of North Dakota, and it is a matter of regret among friends that only sketches of their interesting history and knowledge of the times has been recorded. Mr. Robinson, born in England, was a freighter in Texas at the age of 18 years, and under the command of Capt. Bent he traveled to Pike's Peak, New Mexico, Arizona, Texas and Nevada. During the Civil War he enlisted for fourteen months service and at the end of the war engaged in the meat business in St. Louis. He and his wife came to Dakota Territory in 1883.

As among the earliest pioneers of McLean county, they had many interesting anecdotes to relate of the early days, when the nearest railway station was Bismarck, a distance of some sixty miles, from where all merchandise and other freight had to be hauled by team during the winter, the summer months affording some relief when transportation of goods could be made by steamboat up the river.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were married in 1864, Mrs. Robinson being Miss Janet Sharp, a lady of Scottish birth, who with her parents came to this country when but a child of four years, and whose death occurred Sunday evening, March 4th, at 6:30 o'clock.

Security State Bank of Crosby, North Dakota, a corporation, Plaintiff-Appellant, versus

Edwin Peterson, Defendant-Respondent.

Syllabus:

(1) Where an answer alleges that defendant received no consideration whatsoever for a promissory note, it is held, upon demurrer, to sufficiently aver an ultimate fact presenting an issue upon consideration.

(2) Where an answer has alleged facts concerning fraud and misrepresentation whereby no consideration existed in the making of a promissory note, it is held, upon demurrer, that a defense is asserted.

(3) Where an answer has alleged an oral agreement not to enforce a note and not to hold the maker personally liable and, where such allegations, in connection with averments of fraud and misrepresentation, may establish a note of accommodation without consideration, it is held for reasons stated in the opinion, that a defense is asserted.

Peter Weller & Arthur Jalbert, Plaintiffs-Respondents, vs. Mulgrew & Sons Company, Defendant-Appellant.

Syllabus:

(1) A contractor, who is engaged in excavating a public drainage ditch, must use, in the performance of his contract, reasonable care so as to avoid injury to adjacent lands and to him the familiar maxim, "sic utere tuo ut alienum laedas" is applicable.

(2) Where a contractor engaged in excavating a drainage ditch has constructed and filled up an old road ditch that served to drain flood waters in the territory tributary and, where, after a heavy rain, flood waters in such road ditch, through the obstruction, were cast upon plaintiffs' field and, thereupon, the contractor, becoming cognizant of the conditions, removed the obstruction by a communicating ditch whereby such ditch properly functioned to drain off flood waters, and where, thereafter, after receiving advice from the Chairman of the Drainage Commission to use his own judgment, the contractor renewed the prosecution of the work and again maintained the obstruction so as to cast flood waters upon plaintiffs' field and to destroy his crops there growing, it is held, for reasons stated in the opinion, that, under the circumstances, the duty was imposed upon the defendant to exercise reasonable care in the continuation or renewal of the work, for the failure of which plaintiffs may recover damages suffered thereby.

(4) Questions concerning the extraordinary character of the storm and concerning the sole contributing and proximate cause of the damages awarded, were for the jury.

HAIRLESS PIGS ARE REPORTED

Fargo, N. D., March 9.—The appearance of litters of hairless pigs in a few of the far western counties of North Dakota is basis of a warning sent out this week to hog raisers by J. H. Shepperd, animal husbandman, North Dakota Agricultural college, suggesting the use of potassium iodide as a preventive.

"Two grains of potassium iodide daily for each sow for 50 or 75 days previous to farrowing is the preventive of hairless pigs," Mr. Shepperd states. "Have the potassium iodide weighed by the druggist, and mix it in the feed for the sows. If your druggist does not keep it apply to your county agent who will be able to get it for you. This warning is sent out on the basis of safety first."

J. C. Russell, county agent of Golden Valley county was the first reported the appearance of hairless pigs in the western part of the state this year.

So Voliva Won't Sail Around World to Prove It's Flat

By NEA Service

Zion City, Ill., March 9.—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Zionist cult here, says he's decided to give up his idea of going Christopher Columbus one better and sailing around the world to prove that it's as flat as a pancake—at least temporarily.

Voliva has just been convicted on a charge of criminal libel brought against him by the pastor of an opposing sect here. And the overseer says that fighting in court has taken and will take so much of his time that he just can't spare the time to travel around the earth's rim.

One of the tenets of the Zionist belief is the world is flat and is surrounded by water. The modern geographical teaching of a ball-shaped earth is regarded as heretical and anti-Christian.

G. N. TO SPEND MUCH MONEY

Minot, N. D., March 9.—Improvements which will involve an expenditure approaching one million dollars constitutes part of the construction work program planned by the Great Northern Railway Co., for the Minot division this year, according to W. P. Stevenson, division engineer, in a statement to The News today. The work, for the most part, will consist of double tracking, relaying and ballasting at various points of the division.

The relaying program calls for the placing of heavy steel rails between Roach and Stanley. Considerable relaying was done last year, 17 1/2 miles of 90 lb., and 17 miles of 100 lb. rails being laid. This year's program calls for about the same amount, it is said.

Last year double track was laid east from Williston to Springbrook and this year double track will be continued from Springbrook to one mile east of Weelock. Steel is being received and distributed to the various points along the line and actual work will begin as soon as weather conditions permit, it is stated.

VELVA STUDENTS MAKE WOOD SAWING MACHINE

Velva, N. D., March 9.—At an outlay of $3.50, trade course students in the state agricultural high school here, devised an attachment which converts the turning lathe into a wood saw, and while the attachment can be removed quickly for lathe purposes. A new machine would have cost the school $150, it is stated.

The device was made that the school might construct a special toolbox with numerous drawers, ordered by a local garage.

The class in drawing furnished sketches; wood workers made the sawing table and supports; iron workers produced various fittings; a local garage permitted use of its lathe to turn out the saw arbor and arbor bearings.

WANTED: A DEMOCRATIC MOSES

There'll Be Applicants But Can They Find a Way Out of Threatened 1924 Direful Dilemma?

BY HARRY HUNT.

Washington, Mar. 9.—Wanted: A Moses to lead the Democrats out of the Direful Dilemma that threatens in 1924.

For Democratic leaders—not the presidential aspirants but the boys who shovel coal and oil the gears to keep the old machine running—force, thus far in advance of the national convention, a deadlock beside which the three-day jam in 1920 will seem insignificant.

A two-thirds vote is required at a Democratic convention to nominate. Three opposing groups at the convention each will control, with the overlapping votes that will shift from one to another, more than one-third of the ballots.

These are:

- 1: The Woodrow Wilson group.
- 2: The William Jennings Bryan group, including the radical dries.
- 3: The wets.

To find a platform and candidate a two-thirds vote of these groups can agree on its problem.

The delegates will have to decide between these alternatives:

- 1: Being "radical" and "dry" to catch the west.
- 2: Being "conservative" and "wet" to win the east.

Among the "willing" candidates who hope to benefit by a deadlock and are ready to be compromised on are Gerard, New York; Owen, Oklahoma; Ralston, Indiana, and Payne, Ohio.

Woodrow Wilson has the organization managers guessing. Some believe he expects his physical condition will permit him to enter the lists himself. If not, in what direction will he throw his support?

All this suspense and uncertainty is beginning already to weigh heavily upon the party managers. It promises to become a mighty burden before June, 1924.

NORTH DAKOTA PROTEST GETS FLORIDA AID

Tampa, Florida, Tribune, Says
State Senate Was Within Rights

The Tampa, Florida, Tribune, has given editorial endorsement to the action of the North Dakota legislature in demanding an investigation of the death of Martin Tabert, Cavalier county boy, alleged to have been flogged to death in a Florida prison camp. The Florida paper says:

Within its Rights.
The editorial follows:
"The senate of North Dakota is entirely within its rights in asking the state government of Florida to explain the death of Martin Tabert, a mere boy from that state, at a Florida lumber plant, where he was serving, under county lease, a sentence of three months for vagrancy."
"The state government of Florida cannot ignore this request. Under the reported facts, this lad was engaged in the heart unseasonable practice of stealing a ride on a freight train. Like many other boys, he ran away from home to see the country, went 'broke' and had to resort to the methods of the 'hobo.' His parents were simply able to take care of him—in fact, sent him money as soon as they learned of his plight, which money, for some unknown reason never reached young Tabert. After serving at the lumber plant less than two months, the boy died. The company reported his death due to 'fever and other complications.' When an investigation was made, it was found that he had been beaten unmercifully, as many as 95 lashes in one instance. He was also treated, according to affidavits, to the distinctive lease system punishment of burial alive thrown in a box and put underground. These affidavits went to the anguished parents and they took the matter up with their own state authorities. Now North Dakota has called on Florida for a full investigation of the case and the punishment of the persons responsible for young Tabert's death."

Leased to Company.
"Tabert was 'leased' under the system in vogue in certain counties of Florida to a lumber company. The case is simply another indication of the barbarous convict lease system which still exists in this state despite the continued outcry against it. When the state lease system was abolished it was thought that the counties would follow suit. Some of them have not. Hence, we continue to hear of such incidents as the flogging to death of this North Dakota boy, whose only offense was that he had left home and had no money."

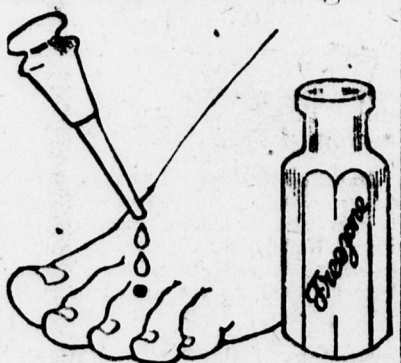

"The Tribune joins the North Dakota authorities in asking a thorough investigation of this case. If it is found that Tabert was brutally treated, as the affidavits set forth, the man or men directly guilty of the brutality in question and the officers or managers of the company which permitted it should be brought to the bar of justice. Florida may be deemed to suffer the stain of this nefarious system, but it can at least show a disposition to take some action against the most pronounced offenders."

EQUAL RIGHTS BILL KILLED

Minnesota Legislature Gets
Bill to Substitute "American" Language

St. Paul, Minn., Mar. 8.—Representative Myrtle Cain's bill to abrogate all common law disabilities for women and providing for equal rights for both sexes was killed in the Minnesota house, that body voting to indefinitely postpone it, 78 to 30. Representative Chauncey Peterson and three other Duluth members are authors of a resolution providing for an investigation of the Duluth armory, which was introduced in the house today. The resolution charges "notorious malfeasance" under the present management.

The "American" language would be made the official language of the state under a bill introduced by Representative E. M. Moen and J. N. Jacobson. Wherever the word "English" is used with reference to language or the study of it, "American" would be substituted under the bill.

The Waldaj bill providing for the appointment of the members of the University of Minnesota board of regents by congressional district will come up in the house on special orders tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. Ice cream will be sold by weight and not measure as at present under a bill offered by Representatives Blum and Stark.

Using an automobile as the means of transportation to and from a place where a crime is committed, by the party committing such a crime, would be made an additional offense and punishable under another offense under the bill introduced by Representative MacLean.

The senate committee on market recommended for passage a bill providing for submission to a vote of the people of a constitutional amendment allowing Minnesota to establish a system of state owned terminal elevators. The committee also recommended favorably a bill requiring a grain or hay commission to carry a bond of $25,000 for each town in which it does business.

neider had helped her, had cared for her children that they might attend school, had sat up nights with her sick husband.

"What did this mother do for her daughter?" he asked.
The testimony of Clara Fisher he characterized as "absolutely a fabrication."

Neon Makes Plea.
P. D. Norton, pleading for the defendant, closed at noon by urging the jury to return what he said was the only verdict warranted on the evidence, that of not guilty, would relieve the surviving child of the Schneider's of the stigma of having her mother branded as a murderer, and would be just.

During his argument of two hours and a half Mr. Norton also dealt with the questioning of Schneider last summer, several days after the murder, by State Attorney McCurdy, Chief of Police Martinson and Justice Casselman. He referred to the Sheriff Holmes of North Dakota, to Mr. McCurdy as "the counsel whom the state's attorney in this case pays such a tribute to," and to Justice Casselman as "the shrewd justice."

He said they talked to Schneider most of the day, and then from 7 p. m. to midnight Schneider's testimony was taken down before the justice.

"If Schneider said a single word to McCurdy, to Martinson, to Casselman that indicated his guilty they had a right to bring it into court," he said. "They did not bring it in because there was not a bit of evidence against him."

He said it was not for the jury to determine how Mrs. Schneider came to her death, but to determine whether or not Schneider was responsible for it.
Bought Good Coffin.
He referred to the period after her death, saying that Schneider bought a $150 coffin, although his mother-in-law protested it was too much money to spend for it.

"Schneider said it was the last thing he could do for his wife," said Mr. Norton. "If he had been looking forward to that $2,000 life insurance, would he have spent so much on her funeral?"
"If he were that kind of a man would he not have clung to every dollar he could?"
Schneider, he asserted, was the most fair and open witness he had ever heard on the stand in such a case.

living near Sweet Briar, Morton county, with her parents, as a fine, healthy girl, obedient to her parents and living in a clean family and fine community.

He pictured Schneider as a wanderer in Russia, going from town to town seeking work, and then emigrating to Strasburg, Emmons county, and later coming to Bismarck. He pointed out that Schneider's first wife, as his second, carried life insurance.

Schneider's first wife, he declared, bore seven children. The first lived but a little while, he said. The next six were born dead. His first wife died during the period of child birth, he said.

"Yet after that first wife had, perhaps through some physical defect or malformation, was unable to bring a child into the world alive, after he had sent her down into the very shadow of death for six times, he sent her down again, the seventh time, and to her death."

"If there were a jury of women here, who had been through that experience, the story told by a man like Kasimir Schneider who sacrificed his first wife to satisfy his animal instincts, would not stand a chance."

He declared that "before the flowers had hardly withered Kasimir Schneider was looking for another wife."

The next episode, he said, was finding Schneider as early as last April, two months before his wife's death, preparing the neighbors for her death, and he took out insurance.

Then, "declared Mr. Sullivan, 'We find this humor girl, raised on the farm, healthy all her life, with sinews almost like those of a man, sick and dying, and carried out to her grave. Where Kasimir Schneider believed the secret that was buried in his heart would be buried forever.'

Science Forestalled Him.
Schneider, he declared, did not reckon with science. Though a post-mortem was unusual the authorities in Bismarck rightly had one, the attorney said.

The stomach was sent to Grand Forks to be analyzed.
They found, Mr. Sullivan said, 4.72 grains of arsenic still in the stomach "not necessarily all she had, but arsenic taken in which had not yet had time to pass through the system."

He said authorities reported a strong odor of lemon in the stomach and also there appeared to be mint leaves there.
"Bear that in mind," he said, "With the woman flat on her back in the house from Sunday until she died on Thursday—Schneider himself says so—how did she get those leaves?"

Mr. Sullivan continued to trace the evidence of the state, the traces of neighbors, particularly that of Joseph Schwan whom he declared was a just man and who could rightly resent the insinuations made against him, and declared the only possible conclusion was that Schneider had poisoned his wife.

MANY M'LEAN PIONEERS AT DOUBLE RITES

Garrison, N. D., Mar. 8.—Many pioneers of this section joined in paying tribute to the memory of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Robinson of Garrison, who died within a period of twenty-four hours, at the last rites of the church at Garrison. The services were conducted by Rev. L. R. Burgum, pastor of the church at Washburn. The bereaved, all pioneers of the early days, were as follows: Chas. May, Alfred Staley, J. P. Peterson, Joseph Mann, Luke Eke, Dr. R. Smith, Wm. Lindell, H. C. Nyland, John Reuter, Aug. H. Wahl, H. Olsen and O. P. McGraw. The funeral was held in the Garrison cemetery.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Robinson had been pioneers of North Dakota, and it is a matter of regret to friends that only sketches of their interesting history and knowledge of the times has been recorded. Robinson, born in England, was a fighter in Texas at the age of years, and under the command of Bent he traveled to Pike's Peak, New Mexico, Arizona, Texas and Nevada. During the Civil War he served for fourteen months service at the end of the war engaged in meat business in St. Louis. He and his wife came to Dakota Territory in 1883.

As among the earliest pioneers of Bismarck county, they had many interesting anecdotes to relate of the early days, when the nearest railway station was Bismarck, a distance of some sixty miles, from where all merchandise and other freight had to be hauled by team during the winter, the summer months affording some relief when transportation of goods could be made by steamboat up the river.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were married in 1884, Mrs. Robinson being Miss Janet Sharp, a lady of Scottish birth, who with her parents came to this country when but a child of four years, and whose death occurred Sunday evening, March 4th, at 6:30 o'clock.

G. N. TO SPEND MUCH MONEY

Minot, N. D., March 9.—Improvements which will involve an expenditure approaching one million dollars constitutes part of the construction work program planned by the Great Northern Railway Co., for the Minot division this year, according to W. P. Stevenson, division engineer, in a statement to The News today. The work, for the most part, will consist of double tracking, relaying and ballasting at various points of the division.

The relaying program calls for the placing of heavy steel rails between Roush and Stanley. Considerable relaying was done last year, 17 1/2 miles of 90 lb., and 17 miles of 100 lb. rails being laid. This year's program calls for about the same amount, it is said.

Last year double-track was laid east from Williston to Springbrook and this year double track will be continued from Springbrook to one mile east of Weelock. Steel is being received and distributed to the various points along the line and actual work will begin as soon as weather conditions permit, it is stated.

Hazen Club Is Organized

Hazen, N. D., March 9.—Organization of the Hazen Community club was perfected here recently at a rousing meeting of citizens and farmers of the district. The officers were made a committee to draft rules and by-laws to present at the next meeting for the approval of the organization.

The meetings are being held at Warwick, Minnewaukan, Oberon, Esmond, Isabel and Leeds.

BY HARRY HUNT, NEA Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Mar. 9.—Wanted: A Moses to lead the Democrats out of the Direful Dilemma that threatens in 1924.

For Democratic leaders—not the presidential aspirants but the boys who shovel coal and oil the gears to keep the old machine running—force, thus far in advance of the national convention, a deadlock beside which the three-day jam in 1920 will seem insignificant.

A two-thirds vote is required at a Democratic convention to nominate. Three opposing groups at the convention each will control with the overlapping votes that will shift from one to another, more than one-third of the ballots.

These are:

1. The Woodrow Wilson group.
2. The William Jennings Bryan group, including the radical drays.
3. The wets.

To find a platform and candidate a two-thirds vote of these groups can agree on its problem.

The delegates will have to decide between these alternatives:

- 1: Being "radical" and "dry" to catch the west.
- 2: Being "conservative" and "wet" to win the east.

promise candidate." until after the Wilson-Bryan-Smith-McAdoo - Cox Ford forces have struggled to exhaustion.

Among the "willing" candidates who hope to benefit by a deadlock and are ready to be compromised on are Gerard, New York; Owen, Oklahoma; Ralston, Indiana, and Paine, Ohio.

Woodrow Wilson has the organization managers guessing. Some believe he expects his physical condition will permit him to enter the lists himself. If not, in what direction will he throw his support?

All this suspense and uncertainty is beginning already to weigh heavily upon the party managers. It promises to become a mighty burden before June, 1924.

DOG SAVES MASTER

Washburn, N. D., March 9.—Barking of a watch dog saved the life of Thomas L. Wilson, rancher residing west of Garrison, according to information received here. Wilson, awakened early in the morning by the barking, discovered his ranch house in flames. He had only time to seize a pair of trousers and escape through a window, for a moment later the roof toppled in. Wilson owns what is known as the old Neel ranch, a property of some 1,700 acres of land.

Will Become Big Honey State

Fargo, N. D., March 9.—That North Dakota will soon be the greatest honey-producing region in the United States is the opinion of Frank C. Pellett, associate editor of the American Bee Journal published at Hamilton, Ill., according to an article in the March issue of that publication describing the bee-keeping industry in this state.

Weather conditions, together with the immense acreage of sweet clover and other honey-producing crops, are the factors which give North Dakota a promising future as a honey-producing state, according to Mr. Pellett's article.

DECISIONS OF SUPREME COURT

From Divide County

Edwin Peterson, Defendant-Respondent.

Syllabus:

(1) Where an answer alleges that defendant received no consideration whatsoever for a promissory note, it is held, upon demurrer to sufficiently aver an ultimate fact presenting an issue upon consideration.

(2) Where an answer has alleged facts concerning fraud and misrepresentation whereby no consideration existed in the making of a promissory note, it is held, upon demurrer, that a defense is asserted.

(3) Where an answer alleges an oral agreement not to enforce a note and not to hold the maker personally liable and, where such allegations, in connection with averments of fraud and misrepresentation, may establish a note of accommodation without consideration, it is held for reasons stated in the opinion, that a defense is asserted.

In District Court, Divide County, North Dakota, Plaintiff has appealed from an order overruling a demurrer to three separate defenses alleged in the answer.

From Cass County

Peter Weller & Arthur Jalbert, Plaintiffs-Respondents, vs. Mulgrew Sons Company, Defendant-Appellant.

Syllabus:

(1) A contractor, who is engaged excavating a public drainage ditch, must use, in the performance of his contract, reasonable care so as to avoid injury to adjacent lands and to him the familiar maxim, "sic utere tuo ut non alienum laedas" is applicable.

(2) Where a contractor engaged in excavating a drainage ditch has constructed and filled up an old road ditch that served to drain flood waters in the territory tributary and, where, after a heavy rain, flood waters in such road ditch, through the obstruction, were turned upon plaintiffs' field and, thereupon, the contractor, becoming cognizant of the conditions, removed the obstruction by a communicating ditch whereby such ditch properly functioned to drain off flood waters, and where, thereafter, after receiving advice from the Chairman of the Drainage Commission to use his own judgment, the contractor refused the prosecution of the work and again maintained the obstruction so as to cast flood waters upon plaintiffs' field and to destroy his crops there growing, it is held, for reasons stated in the opinion, that, under the circumstances, the duty was imposed upon the defendant to exercise reasonable care in the continuation or renewal of the work, for the failure of which plaintiffs may recover damages suffered thereby.

(3) A right of way release, granted by plaintiffs to the county for the construction of such drainage ditch, did not release damages occasioned by the contractor's negligence.

(4) Questions concerning the extraordinary character of the storm and concerning the sole contributing and proximate cause of the damages awarded, were for the jury.

HAIRLESS PIGS ARE REPORTED

Fargo, N. D., March 9.—The appearance of litters of hairless pigs in a few of the far western counties of North Dakota is basis of a warning sent out this week to hog raisers by J. H. Shepperd, animal husbandman, North Dakota Agricultural college, suggesting the use of potassium iodide as a preventive.

"Two grains of potassium iodide daily for each sow for 30 or 75 days previous to farrowing is the preventive of hairless pigs," Mr. Shepperd states. "Have the potassium iodide weighed by the druggist, and mix it in the feed for the sows. If your county agent who will be able to get it for you. This warning is sent out on the basis of safety first."

J. C. Russell, county agent of Golden Valley county was the first reported the appearance of hairless pigs in the western part of the state this year.

So Voliva Won't Sail Around World to Prove It's Flat

By NEA Service

Zion City, Ill., March 9.—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Zionist cult here, says he's decided to give up his idea of going Christopher Columbus one better and sailing around the world to prove that it's as flat as a pancake—at least temporarily.

Voliva has just been convicted on a charge of criminal libel brought against him by the pastor of an opposing sect here. And the overseer says that fighting in court has taken and will take so much of his time that he just can't spare the time to travel around the earth's rim.

One of the tenets of the Zionist belief is the world is flat and is surrounded by water. The modern geographical teaching of a ball-shaped earth is regarded as heretical and anti-Christian.

"I am getting together an expedition to sail around the outer rim of

VELVA STUDENTS MAKE WOOD SAWING MACHINE

Velva, N. D., March 9.—At an outlay of $3.50, trade course students in the state agricultural high school here, devised an attachment which converts the turning lathe into a wood saw, and while the attachment can be removed quickly for lathe purposes, a new machine would have cost the school $150, it is stated.

The device was made that the school might construct a special toolbox with numerous drawers, ordered by a local garage.

The class in drawing furnished sketches; wood workers made the sawing table and supports; iron workers produced various fittings; a local garage permitted use of its lathe to turn out the saw arbor and arbor bearings.

The spring openings of famous Parisian couturiers have news of interest to women everywhere. The fullness of a gown continues to be placed at the front and sides; the waistline is slightly higher, but doesn't reach the normal waistline even yet; the straight silhouette divides honors with circular and bouffant outlines.

All suits are three-piece models. Kton, box and cape-back jackets are the most popular styles for suit coats. Skirts are slightly fuller and frequently circular. The accompanying blouses are of plain or printed silk and frequently feature jabot trimming.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL

In making many of the sequences for "When Danger Smiles," the William Duncan picture which will be shown at Capitol theater tonight it was necessary for the company to work from sunset to sunrise for over a week. The company was on location in the foothills of California thirty miles from the studio in the vicinity of Calabasas. A battery of lights was necessary to light up the foreground for the action, and in the distance could be heard the thunderous heat of cowpunchers and companions riding to the schoolhouse dance. The music of the singing night groups, mixed through the air and the bright tint in the sky gave evidence through the light to the inhabitants for many miles around that William Duncan was staging another Western.

The night scenes are thrilling and

AN INTIMATE STORY OF INNERMOST EMOTIONS REVEALED IN PRIVATE LETTERS

Copyright 1923—NEA Service Inc.

LETTER FROM LESLIE HAMILTON TO HER FIANCÉ, JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

I have just finished reading, dear heart, the sweetest letter I've ever received from a woman ever received.

I was somewhat surprised to read its outspoken love for me, notwithstanding you have been a very satisfactory lover, yet always when I have been with you and you have said it, there seemed to be a little reticence on your part, as though you did not say to me all the things that you were thinking, but in this first love letter you have ever written to me, you have seemed to pour out your entire soul. Oh John, if you could know how happy I am over it!

Yes, dear, we were made for each other. I am sure that I, too, have been hunting you, not only all this life, but in all the lives before I met you. Perhaps I did meet you some time in those far-off days. Perhaps that is why our souls rushed together again at the meeting of our lips.

Did you meet me at the train and before he had fairly said, "Hello, daughter," I began to tell him about you. Before I was half through he said, "Stop a minute. Let's get this thing straight." And then he asked me the funniest questions: how many times you had called upon me during the day, how many times you had left your business to "fool" around with me, how many times we had gone to the theatre together, could you dance well, were you an inveterate smoker, and last he asked me the most preposterous question of all—he asked me how much you were earning, dear.

I knew I blushed for it seemed so indefinite, somehow. I told him I could not answer that; that we had in a curio way talked of living expenses—and you told me that "we could have a honeymoon like the few years of our married life, but that I really could not make our love a commercial understanding."

I explained to him that I had told you that I did not expect to live as he and mother lived, and I gently reminded him that before he was a steel magnate he was a steel worker at $8 a day, and that he and mother lived on that and raised Alice and me until I was five years old and she was three.

He looked at me rather quizzically and said: "Yes, Leslie, your mother did every bit of the work, including washing, in our home the first two years of our married life."

I could not help laughing at this, dear, I could not picture my mother with her beautiful clothes and the gorgeous background of the finest home in Sharon, ever bending over a washtub.

You see, dear, I am very confidential with you; I am determined to have no secrets from you either

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

QUICK THINKER?

If you drive an auto, you've noticed that some people, when in danger of being run over, jump more quickly than others. At one end of the line is the pedestrian who, caught in a tight corner of traffic, has perfect control of himself, also the power of instantaneous decision. That party knows exactly what to do, makes up his mind quickly.

The other extreme is the person who, suddenly trapped in a maze of cars, loses his head and tries to jump in all directions at once, so that the motorists haven't the slightest idea which way to turn.

The speed with which you are able to make up your mind, in emergency, is what the brain students now call one's "reaction time."

How many seconds in your "reaction time"? That is, how long does it take to telegraph danger, or the need of quick action, to your brain, then make decision and start the body carrying out orders without faltering?

A government bulletin says: "Reaction time is the interval of time that elapses between the instant a sign or signal is seen and the necessary action started. A driver starts to pass another vehicle when suddenly a third vehicle appears which may block his path. The driver must decide whether to pass the vehicle or drop back. If his reaction time is slow he may not realize the danger until too late to avert an accident."

The reaction time of some people is very slow and undoubtedly is the cause of many accidents. Does the public safety require that such people be denied drivers' licenses? The Bureau of Public Roads is not yet ready to advocate such a policy, but considers that it should be investigated as a possible safety measure."

A very able suggestion. Put into effect, it would eliminate at least a fourth of auto drivers—and the same per cent of pedestrians.

What determines your "reaction time"? What makes one person quick to reach decision and act in emergency, while another is slower? The answer leads us back to the body's endocrine glands, interest in which has lately been eclipsed by King Tut, Coue and the Chaplin-Negri incident.

The adrenal glands, attached to the kidneys are the regulators of "reaction time." They really reserve energy in emergency and telegraph through blood and nerves the command to halt activity in all parts of the body except the parts needed to extricate the body from the emergency. Blood is rushed to speed up the muscles needed "in a pinch."

AFRICAN

Zobhuu, native chief of Swaziland in Africa, visits London. The sights that impress him most are the rushing crowds and the snakes in the zoo.

He says the hustle and bustle and mad rush and the roaring of traffic sapped his energy and left him very tired. Civilization is doing that to all of us, constantly. In cities our nerves have to withstand a frightful number of shocks.

The wise man goes to the country, to recuperate in peace and quiet, as often as possible. Civilization at its best is more of a monster than a benefit. Airplanes to the rescue. They will break up the cities by enabling people to scatter and live in the country.

COLDS

The epidemic of gripe this winter reminds you that the common cold is the worst disease pest inflicted on civilization. By undermining general health, it indirectly is one of the leading life destroyers. The common cold, coming several times a year and year after year, would wear us out eventually even if we had no other diseases.

All very fine for scientists to search for a way to make us live 200 years or to rejuvenate old age by monkey glands. But the world is in greater need of something that will annihilate colds—from the common type to gripe and flu. Medical science has no greater field.

FORGETTING

When the war ended, the average Englishman believed that his country never would trade with Germany again on a big scale.

Yet John Bull, balancing his foreign trade books, finds that England last year bought about 120 million dollars' worth of German goods.

Have you observed how rapidly the war is being forgotten in our country? It's fading in Europe, too, though at a slower rate. Hatreds would die a lot faster over there if politicians were not pouring kerosene on the fire to hold their jobs. Time heals all wounds.

FALSE

There's an old saying about "starving a fever and feeding a cold." Modern laboratory research proves that the quickest way to get rid of a cold is to starve it.

When you have a cold, eat lightly. And go to bed. A few days in bed is more effective, for almost any illness, than pills or other kinds of drugs. When you're on your back, the heart has an easier job than when you're on your feet and moving about. By going to bed when feeling out of sorts, we relieve the heart of part of its customary burden, enabling it to rally our energy for an attack on disease germs.

GLOOMY

Zobhuu, king of the black natives in Swaziland, Africa, is impressed by "the streams of people with sad faces" in London. That always strikes visitors to cities who come from quiet parts of the earth.

If you want to know what city congestion is doing to our emotions and spirits, study the expressions on the faces in the dense crowds of city streets. Nine out of ten look gloomy, depressed. And yet they cling to the city. Do we love cities?

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

A SIMPLER SCHOOL CURRICULUM

The Pritchett report on the educational situation is likely to bring to a climax a series of attacks on the secondary school system that have been growing to an ominous mutter. Nobody dreams of going back to conditions of a past generation, but professional educators will befool themselves if they imagine that many responsible persons do not believe that in many of our school activities there has been more change than progress.

The great count against the American school system today is that while it is desirable enough that boys and girls should know, somehow it is not teaching them the meaning of two great words. Few of those who do not understand these words rise above mediocrity. These words are "duty" and "thoroughness."

It is often said that the home ought to attack more than it does to the teaching of moralities, and that an unfair burden is being thrown upon the teachers by parental neglect. This is deplorably true, but for that very reason the school ought to readjust itself so as to meet the changed demands just as far as possible.

So far as the personnel of the teaching profession goes, there has been a marked improvement. Most teachers now enter their work as a serious career requiring careful training and not simply as a convenient hitching post on the high road to matrimony. They are handicapped, however, by a situation in which so much is required in the way of administrative detail and the teaching of multifarious subjects that character building suffers and the pupils too frequently pass from class to class after a mere smattering of things it requires prolonged study to render profitable.

Let us face the fact that today civilization has become so complex that there are an infinite number of subjects, significant and worthy, which no one person can hope to study, much less children in the common and intermediate schools. Nobody would summon back the good old days of the "Three R's" and the master's brown rod; but the tuition fact remains that there were broad in those primitive days intellectual giants such as we are none too sure are emerging from our class-rooms today.

The children then learned neither botany nor basketry, neither French nor art forms (nor disparagement of any of these subjects), but somehow they did learn to be reverent, to stick to a hard task until it was accomplished, and to have a healthy fear of immediate consequences. If they refused to use the power that were in them, when they got out in life, which would have profited them more, a little hapless infant, or the mental habits which enabled them to face a hard problem and say to it "I can."

There is growing need that the ordinary school program should be purged and simplified. It is more important to teach a few things well than many things after a fashion. It is more important to create habits of severe application, respect for proper authority, and unwillingness to shun a task just because it is difficult, than to impart that "little knowledge which is dangerous thing" about many unessential subjects. ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

This is what the paper said—the paper that was in the last egg the Cut-Out Woman had given to the Twins.

"That must mean Jack Straw's house," cried Nancy.

"It certainly does!" said the rooster, with the spectacles. "And for one am going to stay around to see what happens."

"Well, we'll have to be starting right away," said Nick. "Goodby."

"Goodby," said the rooster.

There stood the magical ladder and there lay the magical mattress in case they should fall off the magical ladder.

Up, up, up climbed Nancy. Up, up, up clambered Nick. And when they reached Jack Straw's house all the winds stopped blowing, and the house stopped spinning around.

They knocked once on the chimney, and then suddenly a voice called out. "Yes, yes, I know three times on your door you don't know which domino the door is."

"Oh, yes we do!" said Nick. "King Even-Steven told us. It's the domino with the double five on it." And with that he knocked one, two, three times on Jack Straw's front door.

Suddenly bang, crash.

The house tumbled down about their ears, and down tumbled the Twins. But they landed on the soft mattress that came out of the egg and the Cut-Out Lady had given them.

"Your house fell down and now you've no place to live," said Nancy. "You had better give us your magic ring so we can turn Mix-Up Land into Apple-Pie Land again!"

Off trotted Nancy and Nick to the place where Jack Straw's house stood, and round on top of a steep.

There stood the magical ladder and there lay the magical mattress in case they should fall off the magical ladder.

Up, up, up climbed Nancy. Up, up, up clambered Nick. And when they reached Jack Straw's house all the winds stopped blowing, and the house stopped spinning around.

They knocked once on the chimney, and then suddenly a voice called out. "Yes, yes, I know three times on your door you don't know which domino the door is."

"Oh, yes we do!" said Nick. "King Even-Steven told us. It's the domino with the double five on it." And with that he knocked one, two, three times on Jack Straw's front door.

Suddenly bang, crash.

The house tumbled down about their ears, and down tumbled the Twins. But they landed on the soft mattress that came out of the egg and the Cut-Out Lady had given them.

Jack Straw tumbled, too, peg-leg and all.

"Wh-what's happened?" he gasped.

"Your house fell down and now you've no place to live," said Nancy. "You had better give us your magic ring so we can turn Mix-Up Land into Apple-Pie Land again!"

Moran Touts Fonseca as Hornsby Rival

When Patrick Moran talks, he usually says something worth while. Patrick, you know, was the first pennant in years and years for Philadelphia and Cincinnati in the National League, pieced together misfit aggregations until they became champions.

Therefore Patrick's judgment on a recruit carries considerable weight. The latest from Moran is that the National League has another Rogers Hornsby. It is funny how rookies come in and are touted as duplicates of the stars of the profession.

But don't forget that the critics laughed when George Sisler was boomed as a duplicate of Tyrus Cobb.

Louis Fonseca, second baseman, is on Hornsby's trail in the opinion of Moran. Maybe yes and maybe no.

This youngster, coming from the semi-pro corners of the Pacific coast regions, in one season became a .367 batter in the National League. That as his record in the league last year, playing in 81 games, and he is topped only by Hornsby, Red Russell of the Pirates and Casey Stengel of the Giants.

Fonseca is not the dashing type of Frankie Frisch. He is of tall, slender build, along the lines of Ivan Olson of the Brooklyn Superbas.

In trailing a ball, however, he hangs his chin close to the dirt. He pounces upon a ball like a cat going over to second base, and is gifted with a natural throw for a second baseman—underhand.

"I thought I would create a bit of excitement when I said that Fonseca would be another Rogers Hornsby in a year," remarked Moran recently, "but if you remember, last spring I said that the Reds would finish in the first division when practically all of the critics said we would rub shoulders with the Phillies for the cellar."

Three Youngsters Are Doped To Add Big Punch To Detroit Club This Year

Three youngsters are doped to give added punch to the Detroit Tigers this season, both in defensive and offensive work. If they deliver, as Ty Cobb expects them to, they will do much to keep the Tigers toward the top.

Sylvester Johnson, the other young slasher who came to Detroit with Pillette in the trade sending Sammy Hale to the Coast League, is the other big possibility. He was the pitching marvel of the Coast League in 1921, but after winning seven and losing three for Detroit he was incapacitated most of the season.

Had Johnson been in all year the American League standing might have been different. As it was, Pillette, who participated in 40 games and is credited with 19 won and 12 lost, weakened under the strain of overwork and his finish was not so brilliant as his start.

"Add to these 'Kip' Collins, acquired from the Boston Red Sox, and Ray Francis, late of the Senators, and Cobb has some valuable additions to his pitching staff.

Always a hard-hitting club, the Tigers have acquired a new outfield prospect who comes from the Omaha club of the Western League with a .376 batting average that ranks second in that circuit's seasonal averages. This is Henry Manush, who also has speed, judging from his record of stolen bases.

Now Famous Battle Between Nelson and Wolgast Gruelling Affair

Thirteen years ago—or on Feb. 22, 1910, to be exact, Ad Wolgast, then won the lightweight championship of the world from Battling Nelson, the known as the "Michigan Wildcat," "Durable Dane," in one of the most gruelling battles in the history of the roped arena.

That fight, which was scheduled to go to a finish, came to an abrupt end in the fortieth round when Nelson's seconds threw in the sponge, as their man, a bruised and battered sight, was staggering aimlessly about the ring.

The outcome was a huge surprise as Nelson had Wolgast almost out in the twenty-third round. In fact, the crowd had already started filing out of the enclosure as the supposedly "fatal ten" was being counted on the challenger.

The fight itself was unique in that it brought together a pair of men who used the same style of tactics in the ring. Nelson and Wolgast were fighters pure and simple. They couldn't box, and they cast science to the four winds. They were in other words "sluggers" who would gladly take a cluster of blows to get one back in return.

Nelson's plan was always to keep pegging away until the foe was "all in" and tired from exertion. With this accomplished, he would tear in, usually finding his man an easy prey.

Young Canadian Bantam Graps Pacific Coast Title Within a Year

Vancouver, B. C., March 9.—Just a year ago, Vic Foley was contentedly smearing paint on buildings and billboards. And now, with the Pacific Northwest bantam title all his own, coast fans are touting him to be figuring with Tremaine and Curtin before long.

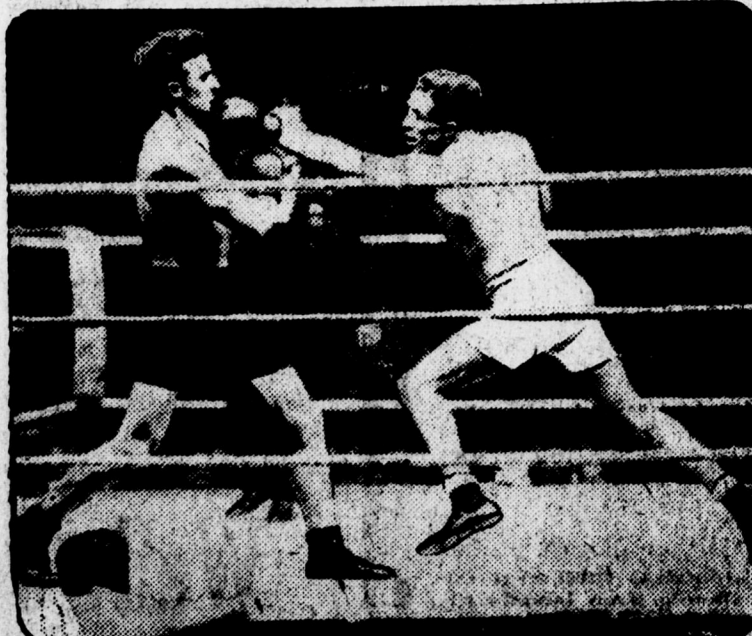

Foley, who is 19, put on gloves at an amateur boxing show here to take the place of a boy who ran out on the promoters. His showing made him a certain raiser next week—and soon thereafter he beat George Washington Lee, tough little Chinese who is the coast's trial horse, in a main event here. He hasn't been beaten or knocked off his feet.

The fight game is beginning to seriously interfere with Foley's painting. He's been smearing opponents all over the northwest, and is showing clever footwork as well as a rock in each fist.

This is Hale's first appearance in varsity athletics and he will be used in track meets this season as Stanford's star sprinter.

His best time is being kept secret until he has had a chance of making a public appearance, but Templeton predicts he will be next in line as heir to Paddock's throne.

Two World Marks Are Rewards For Ritola's Efforts

By NEA Service.

New York, March 8.—Once in a while some athlete takes a fall out of a world record. But seldom does a contestant pull the stunt of tumbling two records at the same time.

Willie Ritola, the flying Finn, did this. He set out to beat Joie Ray, king of distance men—and to do it he put forth the greatest three-mile run the world has ever witnessed.

On a poorly conditioned indoor track he beat the cinder path mark. Doggedly keeping at Joie's heels with his peculiar, awkward gait, Ritola drove the veteran runner to superhuman efforts. Then, in the spirit of the tape Ritola passed Ray and hung up a mark of 14:4.5. This not only shattered the world record for the inside three-mile run, but lowers the record the great Alfred Shrubbs set on an English outside track, in 1903.

DISCUSS PLAN FOR BALL TEAM

Linton, N. D., March 9.—A baseball meeting was held here for the purpose of organizing and electing officers for the coming season. Ed. Kruger was prevailed upon to act as manager for the coming year. Arthur Heinrich was elected as treasurer and Harry Lynn as secretary of the organization. Prospects for the year were discussed and it was decided that a pitcher was about all that would be needed to round out a pretty fair team. It was unanimously agreed that the man was wanted was Louis Angell, who twirled for the locals last year. The officials were instructed to offer him a contract. At present he is working in the woods in northern Minnesota.

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT TAKES SLUMP UPON CROP REPORTS

Chicago, Mar. 9.—With the government report on farm wheat production considered bearish by the majority of traders, wheat took a downward swing in price today during the early dealings. Apprehension also was expressed in regard to crop prospects for domestic winter wheat. Besides accumulating stocks and continued lack of export demand counted further against the bull side of the market. Opening prices which ranged from 1 1/4 cent decline to 1 1/2 cent advance with May, $1.18 1/2 to $1.19 and July $1.14 1/2 to $1.14 1/2 were followed by a slight additional additional gain in some cases, and then a decided drop all around.

Active buying on the part of a house with eastern connections, turned the wheat market upward today in the last half of the board of trade session. Finding offerings scarce shorts scored freely. The close was firm, 1/2 cent net higher with May, $1.19 1/2 to $1.19 1/2, and July, $1.15 to $1.15 1/2.

Chicago, Mar. 9.—With the government report on farm reserves of wheat considered bearish by the majority of traders, wheat took a downward swing in price today during the early dealings. Apprehension also was expressed in regard to crop prospects for domestic winter wheat. Besides accumulating stocks and continued lack of export demand counted further against the bull side of the market. Opening prices which ranged from 1/4 cent decline to 1/2 cent advance with May, $1.18 1/2 to $1.19 and July $1.14 1/2 to $1.14 3/4 were followed by a slight additional gain in some cases, and then a decided drop all around.

Active buying on the part of a house with eastern connections turned the wheat market upward today in the last half of the board of trade session. Finding offerings scarce shorts scored freely. This close was firm, 1/2 to 3/4 cents net higher, with May, $1.19 1/2 to $1.19 3/4, and July, $1.15 to $1.15 1/4.

When Patrick Moran talks, he usually says something worth while. Patrick, you know, won the first pennant in years and years for Philadelphia and Cincinnati in the National League, pieced together amidst aggregations until they became champions.

Thirteen years ago, on Feb. 22, 1910, to be exact, Ad Wolgast, then won the lightweight championship of the world from Battling Nelson, the known as the "Michigan Wildcat," "Durable Dane," in one of the most grueling battles in the history of the roped arena.

That fight, which was scheduled to go to a finish, came to an abrupt end in the fourth round when Nelson's second, three in the sponge, saw their man, a bruised and battered fighter, stagger and fall. The fight was over.

The outcome was a huge surprise as Nelson had Wolgast almost out in the twenty-third round. In fact, the crowd had already started filing out of the enclosure as the supposedly "fatal ten" was being counted on the challenger.

But the referee never reached the double figure for Wolgast crawled to his feet and by one of the most sensational "comebacks" ever staged in fistiana gradually wore the Dane down and beat him at his own game.

The fight itself was unique in that it brought together a pair of men who used the same style of tactics in the ring. Nelson and Wolgast were fighters pure and simple. They fought the same way. They were in the four corners. They were in other words, "sloggers" who would gladly take a cluster of blows to get one back in return.

Nelson's plan was always to keep his opponent busy until the foe was "tired" and tired from exertion. With this accomplished, he would then usually find his man an easy prey.

Fonseca is not the dashing type of Frankie Frisch. He is a slender build, along the lines of Ivan Olson of the Brooklyn Superbas.

In trailing a ball, however, he hangs his chin close to the dirt. He pumps up a ball like a cat going over to second base, and is gifted with a natural throw for a second baseman—underhanded.

"I thought I would create a bit of excitement when I said that Fonseca would be another Roger Hornsby in a year," remarked Moran recently, "but if you remember, last spring I said that the Reds would finish in the first division when practically all of the critics said we would rub shoulders with the Phils for the cellar."

Three Youngsters Are Doped To Add Big Punch To Detroit Club This Year

SYLVESTER JOHNSON (LEFT), HERMAN PILLETTE AND (IN SET) HENRY MANUSH

Three youngsters are doped to give added punch to the Detroit Tigers this season, both in defensive and offensive work. If they deliver, as Ty Cobb expects them to, they will do much to keep the Tigers toward the top.

Herman Pillette, a rookie pitcher last year, made an unusually good record for his first year in fast company. Cobb looks for him to do fully as well.

Sylvester Johnson, the other young slasher who came to Detroit with Pillette in the trade sending Sammy Hale to the Coast League, is the other big possibility. He was the pitching marvel of the "Coast" in 1921, but after winning seven and losing three for Detroit he was recuperated most of the season.

Had Johnson been in all year the American League standing might have been different. As it was, Pillette, who participated in 40 games and is credited with 10 wins and 12 lost, weakened under the strain of overwork and his finish was not so brilliant as his start.

"Add to these 'Kip' Collins, acquired from the Boston Red Sox, and Ray Francis, late of the Senators, and Cobb has some valuable additions to his pitching staff. Always a hard-hitting club, the Tigers have acquired a new outfield prospect who comes from the Omaha club of the Western League with a .376 batting average that ranks second in that circuit's seasonal averages. This is Henry Manush, who also has speed, judging from his record of stolen bases.

Two World Marks Are Rewards For Ritola's Efforts

By NEA Service. New York, March 8.—Once in a while some athlete takes a fall out of a world record. But seldom does a contestant pull the stunt of tumbling two records at the same time.

Willie Ritola, the flying Finn, did this. He set out to beat Jole Ray, king of distance men—and to do it he put forth the greatest three-mile run the world has ever witnessed.

On a poorly conditioned indoor track he beat the cinder path mark. Doggedly keeping at Jole's heels with his peculiar, awkward gait, Ritola drove the veteran runner to superhuman efforts. Then, in the sprint of the tape Ritola passed Ray and hung up a mark of 14:4.4.5. This not only shattered the world record for the inside three-mile run, but lowers the record the great Alfred Shabas set on an English outside track in 1903.

DISCUSS PLAN FOR BALL TEAM

Linton, N. D., March 9.—A baseball meeting was held here for the purpose of organizing and electing officers for the coming season. Ed. Kruger was prevailed upon to act as manager for the coming year.

Arthur Heinrich was elected as treasurer, and Harry Lynn as secretary of the organization. Prospects for the year were discussed and it was decided that a pitcher was about all that would be needed to round out a pretty fair team. It was unanimously agreed that the man wanted was Louis Angell, who twirled for the locals last year. The officials were instructed to offer him a contract. At present he is working in the woods in northern Minnesota.

JOHNSON HITS HARDING PLAN

Against Membership on International Court

New York, Mar. 8.—President Harding's proposal that the United States accept membership in the permanent court of international justice was assailed here last night by Senator Johnson, Republican of California, a leader of the senate irreconcilables as a first "false step" toward membership in the League of Nations.

Speaking before the Bronx board of trade, the California senator declared the demand for American participation in European affairs was based on no logical foundation, but emanated from "a befogged international intellectuality or a hysterical perverted imagination."

"Still the cry continues, the propaganda persists, for our entry into Europe," said Senator Johnson, "it takes on one form and then a totally different one, and has run the gamut of possible international organizations. Its advocates appeal in turn with equal fervor to our altruism and our cupidity."

LABOR DINES WITH KING

British Monarch Breaks Bread at Lady Astor's House

London, Mar. 8.—The king and queen for the first time in their lives broke bread with the labor members of parliament tonight in the home of one of their subjects.

The occasion was a dinner given by Viscount and Lady Astor, at which their majesties met among others James Henry Thomas, general secretary of the national union of railway men, John Robert Clynes, president of the national union of general workers and former labor leader in the house and Philip Snowden, and their wives.

Labor came in silken knee breeches, which was jokingly described as a concession and there also were present those who wear the cherished carter-Balfour, Salisbury and Grey of Fallowden.

The affair, unique in British social history, was arranged as much to permit the king and queen to meet in social intercourse with the laborites as to allow the laborites to come into social contact with their rulers.
